Fox Lake Campground
7424 South 300 East, Portland, IN 47371
260-335-2639; www.FoxLakeCampground.com
Directions: 6 miles South of Portland golf course on State Route 27 to County Road 800S. Go East 3 miles on CR 800S to CR 300E. Go ½ mile north to campground entrance on left. This relaxing campground is located in beautiful rural North Central Indiana. The peace and tranquility will take you to an earlier time. Originally Old Man Potter’s Farm, he realized that his cherished Oak and Hickory Groves next to Fox Lake, a small several acre fishing lake, would be the ideal spot for people to relax and “get away from it all.” When you come back the country lane you can almost imagine Old Man Potter sitting on the banks after a long day working the fields and dropping a line in the water to catch a prize catfish. You may come for the day, weekend, week, or find that our seasonal rates are so affordable it will prove a great way for you and your family to enjoy the entire summer! Beautiful swim pond and beach. FHU, Pull-thrus, Cabin Rentals.

General RV Center
17277 Racho Road, Brownstone, MI 48192
734-284-5500; www.generalrv.com
At General RV, we’re proud of our more than 50 years of family ownership. We take pride in it because family doesn’t just describe us: It describes how we feel about our customers. When you do business with General RV, you join our family. In 1962 our founder, Abe Baidas, took his family out West on a camping trip. He enjoyed it so much that he didn’t just want to own an RV — he wanted to help others have that same experience.
To this day, we’re passionate about helping our customers experience the adventure and family fun that made such an impression on Abe decades ago.
Much has changed since that inaugural camping trip. We began as a trailer rental business run out of a gas station in Detroit, and now we’re America’s premier full-service RV dealership, with 11 locations in 5 states and more RVs in stock than any family-owned RV dealer. But we also take pride in what hasn’t changed. Just as Abe preached to his first salespeople, we believe that if we treat each customer honestly and fairly, we’ll have a friend for life.
