AN OPEN LETTER: To the parents of the victims murdered by Elliot Rodger.

I'm not talking here about the three tragic murders Rodger committed by stabbing before his driving and shooting spree; I speak now only to the families of the gunshot victims in Santa Barbara:

Enter to win the Family Gun Package Giveaway!

It's a tragedy.

I am sorry you lost your child. I myself have a son and daughter and the one thing I never want to go through, is what you are going through now. But:

As harsh as this sounds – your dead kids don't trump my Constitutional rights.

Richard Martinez, whose son (Christopher) was among the murdered, choked back tears at a news conference, blaming politicians the next day: "The talk about gun rights. What about Chris' right to live?" Martinez said – and much more.

There are no critical words for a grieving father. He can say whatever he wants and blame whoever he'd like – it's okay by me. You can't take a step in his shoes – at least I can't.

But the words and images of Mr. Martinez blaming "the proliferation of guns", lobbyists, politicians, etc.; will be exploited by gun-grab extremists as are all tragedies involving gun violence and the mentally ill by the anti-Second Amendment Left.

As a father, husband and a man, it is my responsibility to protect my family. I will stand up for that right vehemently. Please believe me, as a father I share your grief and I will pray for you and your family, as I do whenever I hear about senseless tragedies such as this.

We still have the Right to Bear Arms and I intend to continue to speak out for that right, and against those who would restrict it – even in the face of this horrible incident by this sad and insane individual. I almost said "Obama Voter" but I'm waiting for it to be official.

I noticed the mainstream media have stopped the practice of immediately reporting the psycho maniac is a conservative Tea Party Republican Christian. Guess they're sick of having to hide being wrong every time when it comes out the whacko votes Democrat?

Mr. Martinez and anyone calling for more restrictions on American's rights need to back off and stop playing into the hands of the folks who merely capitalize on these horrific events for their own political ends.

They don't care about your family or your dead children at all. They sound like they do, whereas I sound uncaring and like I say, harsh. Don't be fooled – I care about your family and mine. The future of our very liberty lies in the balance of this fight.

In conclusion, I cannot begin to imagine the pain you are going through, having had your child taken away from you. However, any feelings you have toward my rights being taken away from me, lose those.

Sincerely;

Samuel Joseph Wurzelbacher

PS: To the parents of Elliot Rodger's stabbing victims: I'm very sorry for your loss. I'm sick to death every damn time I turn around and some poor soul with obvious violent mental sickness is allowed to exact this kind of pain on a family.

Elliot Rodger deserved help, yes – but your child deserved so much more. I'm very sorry and sad for you.

I can answer the question in the cartoon. Psychotropic drugs (Ritalin, Ativan, Cymbalta, etc.)! ALL of the killers in mass shootings in the last 15 years have been on some form of them.

A good place to start looking for all the drugs that these people were on is here <http://www.ssristories.org/>

They try to document from reliable news sources the drugs that were prescribed to these people. Over 5,000 stories so far. Media fails to make the connection, but they NEVER miss an opportunity to connect a gun do they?

Not all weapons are guns. If someone wants to create mayhem, there are hundreds of items they can use. It is NOT the ITEM that kills. It is the human involved. All ropes, knives, fertilizers, and even WATER would have to be banned!

Thank the liberal pussy-footers who rejected the notion that the mentally ill should be kept away from society and be allowed to roam free. Thank them for making it insanely difficult to put the mentally ill in an institution where they can't hurt anyone. (The mentally ill in Congress are another matter; they hurt everyone). Thank the liberals for many of the homeless, who would be cared for if it weren't for liberal policies that loose the mentally ill from the places that could help them. And while you're at it, thank liberals for the dead who are murdered by those who should have been kept locked up in mental wards or prisons. You can thank wrong-headed liberals for these things, which came about because liberals were more interested as being SEEN as compassionate than being compassionate.

And thank the liberal establishment culture mavens for glorifying fornication to the point that this disturbed creature was led to think he was entitled to sex.

HE WAS A SPOILED ROTTEN KID AND GREW UP HAVING EVERY THING WE WANTED. NO ONE EVER TELLING HIM NO YOU CAN'T HAVE THAT, NO YOU CAN'T DO THAT, NO YOU CAN'T GO YOU ARE GROUNDED, AND MORE THAN LIKELY HE NEVER GOT HIS BACK SIDE WHIPPED, BECAUSE THAT WOULD BE CHILD ABUSE, BUT HE MIGHT HAVE TURNED OUT TO BEEN A BETTER PERSON. SPARE NOT THE ROD AND SPOIL THE CHILD. I DO BELIEVE IN THIS AND IT IS ALSO FROM THE HOLY BIBLE. I grew up with this and applied to my own children and my grand children if they were in my home. they followed my rules or else.

I agree with you that this young man's sense of privilege and entitlement (which may or may not have come from a home that lacked discipline and boundaries) seemed to contribute to this sick, twisted world view full of hate and rage. I agree that by all indications he was very much in need of someone to intervene with serious discipline and consequences and had that happened likely we're not discussing this. That said, as a pastor, I would ask that you please refrain from the "spare the rod, spoil the child" expression. I know that for many of us corporal punishment was a good deterrent that taught us respect and self-control. But this is not at all what the scripture is actually saying. NO ONE in the first century or previous centuries within the Jewish family model had any concept of "the rod" as something to use to strike a child. The rod was used in instruction, or discipline. Bear in mind that discipline derives from a word meaning "student." I know it seems like a small, petty thing, and I understand that you, like many, have spent much of your life hearing that this scripture is God's way of saying that if we don't use the rod, or belt, or our bare hand from time to time, we may be going too light on our children. But as a pastor, it's a real peeve of mine how often this passage gets applied in ways that are so off from what it actually said.

Then you need to read about this case. Yes there were guns involved, legally bought in one of the most heavily gun controlled states in the Union. However, the guns were not used until after he killed three people by stabbing them to death. Even though he had the guns with him, it sounds like the shooting were an after thought.

No not an afterthought part of the plan. Had he shot his roommates the gunfire would have put an end to his plan at that building. Knives are silent allowing him to use his firearms in outdoor locations. He spoke of the weapons he had as part of his grand scheme. You cons have done all you can to ensure the mentally ill can continue on this path unrestricted by law.

Yeah the Libs don't realize that knives actually have a higher fatality rate per attack (30% fatality vs 10% fatality with gun shot, a 3x increased lethality) The left has blocked and done all it can to insure that the roommates who were knifed to death could not find out this guy with a diagnosed dangerous condition was rooming with them.

Well it's not all that hard to figure out, and a rather logical conclusion actually. This idiot was P Oed because females didn't find him appealing. Creeps are creeps, but this creep took out his frustration on whoever. In simple terms he couldn't get laid so he went postal! Got it? Therefore, sex, or the lack thereof seems to that have been the root cause of his sick mind, hence the conclusion of it being a sex (motivated) crime. OK, it might be a stretch, but something set this fool off and his u tube rant strongly suggests his creepy sick nature and sexual frustration was or easily could have been the likely cause. Two plus two usually comes out four, unless you have a mind like this sick fool had!! Who's fault is all this? The fools who raised him, they are as responsible as he is and should be held accountable !!! Say what? Yes responsible! If your pit bull bites and injures someone you are responsible. IF you're responsible for what your dog does how can you NOT be responsible for what you brat does????????????????????

Not to put too fine a point on it, he didn't rape his victims, he shot them instead. I was attempting an indictment of modern, 'liberal' sexuality by calling these murders a consequence of the dismantling of traditional Christian morality. I'm giving a Right Wing answer to the claim that this crime was caused by inadequate gun control. My point is: rather than restrict handgun ownership further, let's restrict the mainstreaming of what used to be called "immorality" i.e. fornication, divorce, abortion, homosexuality, etc. I understand why someone might consider this a stretch, but IMO, it's no more of a stretch than the idea that "guns" are responsible.

2 ^ | v · Reply · Share ›

Juggy Brodleteen → t1k244182 · 5 hours ago

Fornication, divorce, abortion, homosexuality, etc., have all been a part of society for any measurable span of history (some longer than others). Maniacs going on rampages with guns have only been around as long as guns.

It is FALSE to say that "modern liberal sexuality" and what you consider to be immorality are "responsible" for this. All social trends point towards a higher sense of morality in modern society, not lower. It's certainly open to debate about WHAT is considered moral, or which expression of morality trumps another, but the fact is people are, generally, getting "better" in the world.

There will always be lunatics that want to harm others. The question is, how easy do we make it for them, or what do we do to mitigate the amount of harm they can cause?

"Human sexual attraction, after all, is not an egalitarian arrangement. The disappearance of culturally-mandated restraints on sexual etiquette generally means that the strong are allowed to run roughshod over the weak. Within such a paradigm, social misfit oddballs like Rodger—those loathed "omega males"—catch the brunt of the rejection being dished out; if such as these are already prone to instability, then failure can fuel hatred and rage, and personal heartbreak can easily escalate into broader spasms of terror, bloodshed and tragedy." How is rape a crime of violence? Maybe other pertinent factors are in play but not readily obvious.

^ | v · Reply · Share ›

mmoommist → Skepticles · 16 hours ago

If rape wasn't violent then it probably wouldn't be a crime. If you read his 'manifesto' you would know it was a sex crime and he was out to kill "blonde women"... Why? Because they didn't fling their undivided attention upon him. Women are the root of all evil was what he was saying and therefore shouldn't be allowed to live. This wacko didn't deserve to die, he should have been put in chains in the public square and let the dogs feed on him daily. As for gun control that is just nuts, no matter how many gun laws, it will never stop the criminals from using them and if it isn't the nut jobs, it will be those who take the guns away. Okay, I'm done rambling.

11 ^ | v · Reply · Share ›

Rodney Lee Conover → mmoommist · 6 hours ago

not all rape is violent. When a woman is drugged, quite often it's not. It's still a crime of violence and invasion - not sex in many cases. Try thinking outside your own world for a moment. this kid was confused sexually, clearly and hated his own feelings, clearly - and hated himself. clearly. The crimes were the manifestation. Thank-you, that will be $165

I am with you that we need to keep the mentally disturbed off the streets, but I think we should put them all together in a camp setting. They could get the care they need and also be part of a community this way. Do not construe this as my being FOR libtards policies, I am totally against them. We USED to just lock these people up, which did not help them in any way. This young man needed help and did not get it. The MSM is not focusing on ANY of his previous encounters with law enforcement, who should have done something to get him some help. Instead they are ONLY focusing on the three SHOOTING deaths, not on the three room mates he butchered with a knife. The only report I could find on what the police found was on a German news site. This was one disturbed young man, but we the conservatives will pay the price for it.

Mr.Mike → Bill1966 · a day ago

What also must be said is that they (The Establishment and pharmaceutical Companies) have been allowing this for a long time. Why? So that just like in Russia, Germany and China they started rounding up dissidents on charges of mental disorders. Right now doctors are fighting the Obama Administration on some 30 new mental dis-order diagnosis that have no actual symptoms just based on basic thought idiologies or thought crimes. For instance if you are depressed because of the loss of a loved one, they will classify you as mentally depressed and should not be allowed to own a gun. These Pharmaceutical companies have been getting filthy rich for the last 50 years. In just the last 20 years I have noticed an incredible increase in the adds on TV. Now don't get me wrong there are people who have real problems like this kid did and even his Psychiatrist warned the police and nothing was done. But at the same time these incidents have been allowed to happen to further the Agenda of a corrupt government. They will get the people to demand that any one for any flimsy reason they can have their gun rights removed. They will allow real disturbed cases to go while taking the rights of dissidents away. This is a very dangerous precedence that we have been forced into.

We aren't quite backed into the corner yet. But this idea of a pretext disqualifying liberties of individuals otherwise at large to engage in life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness endangers us all.

We must insist that any individual citizen not in custody MUST be considered and treated as competent, law-abiding, and unrestricted to any inheirant excersize of rights, liberties, and freedoms in any way. Otherwise, the state will define itself as arbiter of any and all rights ('for our own good') of every citizen. Because it will assume it can.

How many of these other incidents your talking about with law enforcement get taken care of by his "RICH" parents? Maybe being a director does not mean your rich actually. But surely someone got him out of trouble the other times.

13 ^ | v · Reply · Share ›

James Stafford → Doris C · 15 hours ago

 The other incidents with law enforcement were not the types of things that get taken care of by anyone, except the person himself. They were not violent episodes, sexually predatory, or other things that could have landed him in jail. They were suspicions that were brought to law enforcement's attention by the parents because they saw something that appeared to be abhorrent to his usual behavior. However, he was a great actor and convinced LEOs that there was nothing to be concerned about, when actually there was. The truth is, this was really no one's fault except the perpetrator's.

This whole scenario is talked about extensively in the scriptures. We are given challenges to help us grow. We have been told that we are never given a challenge that we are not able to overcome, if we use not only our power, but the power of all of those around us - seen and unseen. Our problem is, unlike Job, we do not use all of the power available to us and therefore become angry and frustrated and sometimes do foolish things, as this young man did. It is a fact of life. Until the millennium, we will never see this type of tragedy obliterated, because the hearts of the people are carnal, and turn away from the truth and light.

Hmmm, perhaps so, but name deleted stated in his 'manifesto' that if the coppers had pursued the issue further they would have figured out what he was apparently planning AND found the guns - which apparently - again according to him - would have taken away the means to do his crimes.

Actually, it was Ronald Reagan who cut funding for mental health and closed psychiatric facilities. "Mental health gained traction during Jimmy Carter's presidency with the first President's Commission on Mental Health and passage of the Mental Health Systems Act in 1980, which sought greater integration of programs for people with serious mental illnesses. In 1981, after Ronald Reagan took office, this act was repealed, responsibility was devolved to the states through services block grants, and the federal government assumed a low profile in mental health policy. - Health Affairs Study, Rutgers University" This drastic cut in funding led to a huge increase of mentally ill being homeless or ending up in prison. He was almost killed by a mentally ill person, but that did not change his mind about the need for better mental health services.

 NameNotGiven → brownsfan51 · 2 hours ago

Ronald Reagan increased federal mental health spending by 25% and he release you mention was an amicus case by the ACLU and decided by the liberal dominated court.

This leftist move forced release of the majority of persons institutionalized, and studies of behavior afterword showed over 18,000 rapes, 4,000 murders and innumerable other cries to those the left forced to be released.

I was born in Toledo in 1973, and graduated from Springfield High School – right around the corner from where I live today. Like many young men graduating from high school, I enlisted in the Air Force looking for adventure, career, and a way to serve the country I love. The Air Force taught me practical skills like plumbing, which is what I did while stationed on bases in Alaska and North Dakota.
